ANDREW TURAK, 41

December 8, 1981 - May 28, 2023

Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania

After a long, hard-fought battle with metastatic pancreatic cancer, Andrew unfortunately succumbed to the...

Actually, no. We're not doing that kind of obituary. Andrew did not lose his battle with cancer. When he died, the cancer died too, so that's not a loss, it's a draw.

Andrew Turak, who you may have known better as Drew, Uncle Dude, or MC Scumbag, lived his entire life in Lawrenceville in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. If you knew Andrew, he was probably your favorite - favorite friend, favorite sibling, favorite cousin, or favorite person to have a conversation with, whether it be a philosophical discussion or debating the best way to eat a hot dog.

It is an impossible task to encompass a person who was so many different things to so many people. Andrew grew up surrounded mostly by women, starting with his mom and sisters, and continuing with a high niece-to-nephew ratio. Over the years, he gained brothers-in-law and nephews to finally offset the balance. Throughout the course of weekly hangouts with Zach Dean, his newest brother-in-law, a bromance developed, and Andrew truly considered Zach his brother. Andrew's wife, Mel, came into his life and was nothing but an asset to him, without ever expecting Andrew to change who he was.

Throughout their entire relationship, but especially over the last two years, Mel was an advocate for Andrew and cared for him tirelessly. He loved Mel more than anyone even knew he was capable. Andrew and his dad watched a sporting event together just about every day, from Pitt basketball to Steelers football to boxing matches. He was a talented self-taught keyboardist and vocalist, as evidenced in hits such as "Stroller Ass," or in collaborations with his forever music partner Marty McElroy. He watched Jeopardy! most nights, frequently sharing multiple blind guesses for Final, even though having more than one guess is technically cheating. Andrew was the life of the party, known as the guy who would go to school dances with anyone who needed a date, including his little sister who took him to her own prom. Any excuse to show off his amazing dance moves was worth it. Over the years, Andrew turned his friends and family onto tons of comedians, providing insight into his impeccable sense of humor. Wine connoisseur, basketball player, the funniest guy you've ever met, pool shark, lively debater, dog-dad, comfort king, poet - these are some of the words that are evoked at the thought of Andrew, still only scratching the surface.

Andrew is survived by his incredible wife Melanie Dean, parents Andrew J. and Mary Turak, sisters Nicole (Donnie) Freyer, Jessica (Dominick) Peluso, Allison (Steven) Ladavat, abundant nieces and nephews Julia, Ava, Isaiah, Isabel, Abe, Giana, Claire, Violet, Stella, Hazel, Dexter, Parents-in-law Jack (Renee) Dean, Marlene Dean, Brother-in-law Zach (Rachel) Dean, plenty of aunts, uncles, and cousins, and of course, his sweet dog Chloe.

Andrew truly and deeply loved life and ensured that he was making the most of it until the very end. He was not ready for his life to end, and we are not ready to say goodbye to our favorite, but we are grateful for the time that we shared with him.

“ To My Cousins.

My girls and I send our Love and Prayers to you all. I, Debbie, will always remember the time I spent with Drew at Desirae and Vince's wedding. I met my cousins new wife. Oh how happy they were. Watching Drew play the keyboards was amazing. Self-taught. We talked by the fire most of the night. Oh the stories. We talked about the Turak Family history, Drew's stories. He was so interesting to talk to. I never knew my hug goodnight would be my last. I have had Drew in my prayers, and thought about him often. I hope all my cards made him smile to know he was thought of often. Andy and Mary you raised an extraordinary young man. I always looked up to you two on how well your children all turned out. Rest in Peace Drew and Play on.....

“ I had the honor of working with Drew at the flagship Fine Wine & Good Spirits store in East Liberty over the past 2 1/2 yrs and thoroughly enjoyed our conversations on basketball, sports, a broad spectrum of other topics, amazing food and especially fine wine. Drew was an amazing light, highly intelligent and with all his experiences and wealth of knowledge --- to me I'll always know Drew to be, the 'Renaissance Man'. Massively and forever grateful for the time that I shared with him.
