“ My mother was the strongest woman I have and probably will ever know. She lived through the tragedy of losing both her parents in childhood, being split from her sister into 2 households and found a way to grow up and meet my dad Jimmy. To all that knew them, they epitomised the everlasting love for each other. They became one. She was his favorite person, and he was hers. I will miss her terribly...

“ My great grandmother was an incredibly strong and generous person. She continues to be one of the most inspirational people that I have had the privilege of knowing. Barbara exuded so much strength, intelligence, care, and elegance. It would also be impossible to not mention her relationship with her husband. They taught me exactly what love looks like, which can be a hard thing to find. I miss my great grandmother dearly and I continue to love her with all of the love she had for those around her.

“ My memory of my mom is mostly tied to my dad Jimmy. In his words, " She was his favorite person" and anyone who knew them, knew he was the love of her life. They had the relationship we all aspire to, truly loving affectionate partners in life that eventually made the one, and certainly a force to be reckoned with. She will be missed. Too many stories to tell :)
