

Darlene Kilgallon-Morris

June 5, 1958 - May 7, 2026

Darlene Kilgallon Morris, 67, passed away on May 7, 2026, leaving behind a silence that can never truly be filled.

Darlene was never meant to live an ordinary life. She was a beautiful, free-spirited soul who walked her own path and answered to no one but herself. A rebel at heart, she moved through the world with strength, fire, and authenticity. She loved deeply, lived boldly, and did everything on her own terms.

A proud veteran, Darlene carried that same fearless spirit throughout every chapter of her life.

To know Darlene was to know a woman who could not be contained — someone whose spirit was wild, unforgettable, and fiercely alive. She carried both softness and strength, and even through life's storms, she remained unapologetically herself.

Above all else, she was a loving mother. She leaves behind her children, Amber (Edwin) (grandson Wyatt) Gowatski, Cara Kilgallon, Kaitlind Kilgallon, and Michael Kilgallon, who will forever carry her love, her lessons, her spirit, and pieces of her laughter within them.

Though her time here has ended, the mark she left on this world and on the hearts of those who loved her will never fade. And somewhere beyond this life, her beautiful soul has finally reunited with her husband she loved and missed deeply. 'Drive like the wind.'

Some souls are simply too bright to ever disappear completely.

Forever loved. Forever missed. Forever free.
