Henry George Bahan

(9/6/91 - 4/17/2021)

On Saturday, April 17, 2021, Henry stopped fighting his long battle with mental illness and ended his pain. He was an incredibly talented musician, writer and artist, but his sensitivity was too great for his heart to hold. He touched so many lives with his kindness, wit and humor. He leaves his mother, Ame Bahan, and his sister, Clara Bahan, who loved him with all their hearts, his grandmothers, aunts, uncles, cousins and friends. Our hearts are broken, but we know he is finally at peace. We will miss him forever. Visitation will be at D'Alessandro Funeral Home and Crematory Ltd., 4522 Butler St. Pgh., PA 15201 In Lawrenceville on Wednesday 4/28 from 4-8 pm.

“ I knew Henry for over a decade through an online community, through some good times and many bad times. After some time without hearing from him, I was so saddened to find this. Despite his struggles, I knew him to have a good heart and a desire to help others. His passion for music was infectious, and I will think of him for the rest of my life when certain songs come on. I know this is belated, but to his family - I'm so sorry for your loss, and my thoughts are with you. Henry, I wish it were another way, but I hope you've finally found peace.

“ Henry, you were a safe place for me to be me when I felt alone and unlovable. Although we struggled together, you always had a way of uplifting me and reminding me of who I was - things I think of to this day. Thank you for seeing me for me and holding my hand through the darkness. You are pure and kind, selfless and loving, authentic and thoughtful. I hope that you've found peace, I will never forget you. Thank you again for being there, I think of you often

“ Henry was very special to me as a friend throughout middle school and high school. He was kind, caring, understanding, and extremely intelligent. I am so sad that I did not get to talk to him before his passing. He holds a special place in my heart forever. I am so sorry for his loss, and for everyone that cared for him. He was a special person

“ I'll miss you, Henry. You were my closest childhood friend, and a huge part of who I am today is because of you. Few people in my life have shaped the way I see the world as much as you did. Even to this day, I often think about our conversations from elementary, middle, and high school. In that sense, it feels like you're still with me.

I'm not usually the type to cry when friends or relatives die - it's just not usually how I express grief... But I'm having a really difficult time writing this message through the tears. I wish I'd had another chance to speak with you before you left.

I'm forever grateful for our friendship, and to have had the chance to know such a beautiful, brilliant, and unique mind. It has always hurt me so much to know how much pain you were in. I'm glad, at least, that the pain is over.

I still remember the day we met, in 3rd grade. Thank you for being my best friend, Henry.

Sending love to the Bahan family <3

*I started digging up old art I made about our friendship. Over the years, I made a lot of drawings, paintings, or sculptures about Henry, so I'm not sure I'll find all of them, but I'll add them here when I find them:*

I am so sorry. I just heard of his passing by chance connecting with old friends. The first person I thought of was you. I'm so sorry Kenny.

“Henry was a good friend of mine throughout middle school and high school. He showed me “The Cure” for the first time and I just didn’t get it at all. He was truly brilliant, he knew things about computers that I just couldn’t comprehend at all. I’m sad that we lost touch in the past years, he truly was a gift to this world. Sending love to the Bahan family <3

“ Henry and I grew up together and for a long time were inseparable. The long walk down Vallevista was always worth time in the park climbing trees in the summer or snowboarding in the winter. Henry broke his collar bone twice in that same park! I have a lot of memories of Henry teaching me songs on the guitar, how to do a back hand spring, and late night sleep overs. We had lost touch over the last decade but I think of Henry often. Sending some light to Ame and Clara in this moment of darkness. Henry was a creative and unique person and he will be missed. I wish I could be there to share memories with the family. From, Ethan Yourd

“ Ame, I remember Henry as a bright, curious, little boy with a creative mind and an infectious smile. Always thinking of clever, funny ways to do things. Remember when he cleaned his room via the window? I'm sorry I let life draw our families apart. I'm sorry to hear that he struggled so much in life. My heart is broken for his loss. I hope you and Clara find comfort and peace. Love, Kim
