“ Rita was like family to me. I would go with Jackie to pick her up to go shopping and out to lunch. We'd be gone all day, get home, unload her groceries, sit in the kitchen and talk, and she would try to cook for me, always. We had just got done eating lunch. One night years ago, I had gone out drinking and wasn't feeling so great the next day. From then on she nick-named me "alcohol". So funny. Rita was always appreciative of what you gave her, whether it was a gift, things to keep her busy, or pictures of the kids. Fly high, you'll be missed.

“ *My heart is heavy and my eyes are red,
as I lay next to you in your hospital bed.
I tried to wake you to let you know I'm here,
but all I could do is shed more tears.
God had called you home that day,
All though I wanted you to stay,
I know God will heal my heart with he's loving grace
Until we meet again in his heavenly place.*
