“ John and family, There was no one like Big K. How could you not like him. Everytime he walked into Chiefs he spread laughter and joy with that big voice. He was like a big teddy bear. I wish everyone could have just a little bit that he brought to us all. Love you K. Rest in Peace.

“ Pookie was the man! So true and so real. Loud....lol....but the life of the party. He was so kind to me and always called me beautiful always. He was warm and compassionate. I loved being around him. He had that thing! that energy booster, that realness about himself, that made everyone smile. Truly, one of the last Mohicans full of knowledge. A gentle giant that always drove the baddest trucks I've ever seen. Always neat and clean. He had some of the baddest football jerseys and mos def was a Steelers fan. He also was a great listener and gave good advice. I can go on and on and on..... Pookie, I love 💕 you to the moon 🌙 and back. I hope to see you on the other side cousin!
